Louis Elley Residence Hit In Second Robbery This Year

The Louis Elley home, off the Temple Highway, was struck by burglars the second time this year while the couple was at work at Hornung Hatchery.

Following a midnight inventory Wednesday by Mrs. Elley, it was figured that the intruders utilized an alligator and a plain suitcase of the Elleys to carry off: 12 bed sheets, 20 pair of pillow cases, 24 wash rags and towels to match, a Polaroid camera and flash attachment and a samll un-named type camera.

Calling Sheriff Black at about 11:30 p.m. the Elleys recalled seeing the front gate to their property open at noon and then found the rear door to the house unlocked when they came in. It was not until the late hour though that Mrs. Elley realized that something was wrong and started her search.

The reason for the long interim in the burglary and the couple's awareness of the absense of the stolen articles was due to the valuable untouched articles lying out such as an electric iron, rod and reel, silverware, a sewing machine and an electric spray gun, among other things of value.

The pattern was completely different from the robbery in the spring when burglars helped themselves to most everything that was not nailed down, including a large combination television set, a shotgun, water pump, electric iron, etc.

26 - 19 Vital Statistic Puts Rattlers in Win Column As Yoe Takes First Down Honors

Showing the power which is inherent in their team the Yoemen made 18 first downs on the ground Friday night to only 4 for the visiting Rattlers from Navasota.

The Yoe strength, on the ground, which has won the consistent backing of sports writers in the neighborhood, showed itself in the last half but fell short of overtaking the firs half success of the visitors by a score of 19 to 26.

Cameron's 18 first downs, made the conservative way, and by hard work, netted 248 yards while Navasota Rattlers made 234 yards on only 4 first downs during the game.

Yoe had the ball in their possession thirty of the forty - eight minutes of play and showed the fighting material of which the team is composed. It was those hapless moments on the quick opening and pass combination plays of the visitors when they gathered their points.

Navasota kicked a "blooper" out of bounds on their own 29 yard line and the Yoemen cashed in in only four plays from that mark.

Two passes fell incomplete. Then John Duncan, fiery Yoe fullback powered twice over left tackle - first for 13 yards and then for 16 and the touchdown that made the score 26 to 13.

After the Yoe kickoff, Navasota put together three plays for a net two yards loss to their 14. John Gibson booted the ball to midfield, where it rolled dead.

Buddy Thompson and Duncan then alternated on pokes through the line and Bobby Williams flipped to Duncan for six and in nine plays drove the distance for a teedee.

Duncan's brillant 18 yard twisting, stiff - arming, side - stepping but mainly driving to the Navasota 10 with minutes remaining was easily a morale booster of the game, for the home fans.

Cliff Angell and Guy Dillon pitched in to help Thompson and Duncan make a vicious and powerful attack on the 7 point lead. But fell short of overtaking the lead when passes failed them in the pinch.

Kiwanians Told "Amalgamation" Is Something We Must Live With

"Place water and oil in the same bottle and shake well" this elementary experiment was proposed to Kiwanians Thursday as Mr. Hinton Pruett, County Superintendent of Schools spoke of the new social, educational and political freedom being held out to a race of people who in 1865 gained their physical freedom.

Minority Race (One to Fourteen)

You and I as members of a minority race must rededicate outselves to the principles which have made us great until no influence on earth can cause them to disintegrate or dissipate, the speaker suggested. These traits of character prevalent in the white race are: High standards of living and behavior, not even approached by any other race or people. The highest moral standards the world has ever known. Our marriage relationship is more sacred, even in spite of the high divorce The home is sacred, we respect its sanctity and as for altruism we are the only race that ever cared for every other man in the world. The example of raising more than ten million dollars which was administered through the Red Cross in the hurricane devasted eastern seaboard. The Red Cross had to throw up its hands and say it had enough to put a stop to the flow of funds. Plain common honesty is a virtue of our race as a whole. And personal pride of our people is not unjustified. We are proud of being well, fed, well clothed and well groomed and of being good citizens. Our conception of religion is that it is a transforming thing. When we have religion we feel a need for living a better life or otherwise there is no religion.

No Superstitions

If you or I should avoid walking under a ladder on which a 200 pound man was working - it would be just plain common judgement" the speaker averred. We have long since overcome mere superstition."

There are over 15 million white people alive today in the United States over 65 years of age which attests to our health habits, cleanliness and sanitation. Can you say that of all races?" the speaker queried.

Security is peculiarly an American trait, if not of the white race. We provide for the future by owning our homes, buying insurance, securities, etc. Not all races have that zealous care for their futures but live from day to day on the theory "get by today and let tomorrow take care of itself."

"In considering the problem of integration or even amalgamation let us think of the example of shaking oil and water together in a tumbler," the speaker concluded. "After shaking is through and the components have been thoroughly mixed, if temporarily, they assume their original state. It will be only by a re-dedication to our basic tenets of life that nothing can shake us from our course" the educator concluded. That law is an insufficient catalyst was implicit throughout the discourse.

In an aside the speaker drew a simile when asked what the implications in his speech add up to. "It's like a patient with diabetes he is told how to live with the ailment - not how to overcome it."

Fumbling Bulldogs Lose To Recovering Rockdale Tigers

The Rockdale Tigers defeated the O. J. Thomas Bulldogs 21 to 13 in a close but rather slow game Friday night.

The Bulldogs won the toss and elected to receive. Two plays later they fumbled deep in their own end of the field and Rockdale recovered. The Bulldogs held them to no gain until the fourth down when an interfence was ruled on an incompleted pass which put Rockdale on the Bulldog two yeard line and set them up for the only touchdown in the first quarter.

Rockdale went over in the second quarter for another tally. Later in the quarter they trapped the Bulldog quarterback behind the goal line for a safety which made the score at the half stand 15 to 0.

The half seemed to invigorate the slow moving Bulldogs and they came back to score two times in the third quarter. A third Bulldog drive was halted on the 8 yard line by another fumble, one of the many which seemed to plague the Bulldogs the entire night.

Rockdale scored again in the fourth quarter to make the final score stand Rockdale 21, Cameron 13.

The Bulldogs will play formidable Calvert High in Cameron Friday night, Oct. 7. Calvert is off to a strong start with a win over College Station, the district winners of last season.

Alcoa Creates New Chemical

The chemical industry has a new raw material from which a long list of new and known products may evolve. This new material is a low - temperature tar derived from the carbonization of lignite at the Aluminum Company of America's plant near Rockdale Texas.

It is known that low - temperature lignite tar contains valuable chemical compounds, but their utilization for chemical purposes has to date not been conomically practical because no commercial quantities have been available.

Research and utilization of lignite tar became possible when Alcoa placed in operation its new aluminum smelter in Rockdale. Here dried lignite and carbonized lignite are used for the first time in this country as a fuel for genertion of power for the smelting of aluminum.

A prototype carbonizer and tar recovery unit has been built and will produce 16,000 gallons of lignite tar a day when in continuous operation. A research and utilization program, based on this new and relatively unknown material, is co - sponsored by Alcoa and Texas Power and Light. Research on the tar is being conducted by Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, Ohio.

Welfare Opens Adoption Center In Bell County

The State Department of Public Welfare is offering a new, or rather an expanded, service to the people of Central Texas who are interested in adopting a child or children. A regional Adoption office was opened in Belton this month to give service to couples in Bell, Falls, Williamson, Milam, Brazos, Robertson, Lee, Burleson, Limestone, Coryell and Lampasas Counties. Mrs. Mary Jim Stephens is the Regional Adoption Worker, and the office is located at 119 W. 1st in Belton.

This is one of three such offices recently set up in the state, the other two being in Amarillo to serve the Pan handle area, and in San Benito to serve the Rio Grande Valley area. The purpose is to find suitable adoption homes for the dependent and neglected children who are under the custody of the State Department of Public Welfare. These children are at present in licensed boarding homes. Parental ties have been terminated by Court and the children are ready for placement in adoptive homes.

The types of children available for adoption are for the most part Anglo school age children, family groups of children, and occasionally a slightly handicapped child. Anglo infants are so seldom available that applications can not be accepted from those couples who do not want anyone but an infant. Homes are needed for Latin American children of all ages, and Negro children of all ages. Homes are also needed for children of mixed nationality, such as part Latin, part Korean, etc.

Mrs. Stephens has returned to the Department after an absence of two years. She was formerly supervisor of the Hidalgo County Child Welfare Unit and has been with the Department of Public Welfare for more than eight years. Her Liberal Arts Degree was from North Texas State College, and her graduate training was with the University of Tennessee School of Social Work, Nashville, Tenn.

Those interested in applying for a child or children should write directly to Mrs. Stephens, P. . Box 269, Belton, and an application form will be sent upon request.

Private Vaccine Distribution Now Underway

Pharmacists and physicians are key people in the State Health Department's intricate plan for insuring fair distribution of still scarce polio vaccine.

The plan moved into high gear last week as Texas' 2,700 pharmacisits were sent vaccine usage forms to be filled out and returned at weekly intervals to state health officials as a means of keeping tabs on every dose of the vital vaccine that is administered to a child of priority age.

"Priority age" is under 10 and pregnant women. It means that only persons in these categories will be digible for shots. Health Commissioner Henry A. Holle said the priority group was extended from the 5 to 9 bracket because the health department records show that the younger age group is most susceptible in Texas.

Land Commissioner Announces Appraiser School In Temple

Land Commissioner J. Earl Rudder announced that in order to insuro that the Texas veterans' land program will be uniform throughout the state and so that the veterans' land board can purchase land at the concrete market price, an appraisers' school would be conducted from Oct. 3 through Oct. 7 in Temple.

Rudder said "Good appraisal is the backbone of a successful veterans' land program. In order to protect the veteran and the state it is absolutely necessary that we establish the actual concrete market value of every tract of land which the state buys for its veterans. That is the purpose of this school."

RudDder continued that four top-notch, independent, practicing appraisers had been secured by the board to help instruct the new men. Emmett Edwards, who was for several years employed by the soil conservation service in Central Texas and is now a highly respected appraiser for the John Hancock Insurance Co. of Waco, will conduct the inital classes on principles of appraising and record maintenance.

The skits were presented as follows: (Den Chief Perrin narrated) 1. Hunting the King's Deer by Den 5. 2. Robin Hood meets Little John by Den 2. 3. Helping the Poor Noble by Den 6. 4. King Richard Pardons Robin Hodd by Den 4.

Dr. Clarence Miller Addresses Local Rotary Club

Rotary Clubs in 92 countries and geographical regions throughout the world are united in an endeavor to promote international peace. That was the message of Dr. Clarence R. Miller of Marlin, Texas, Governor of District 187 of Rotary International, in addressing the Rotary Club of Cameron Tuesday, following a conference with local Rotary officers and committee chairmen.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 8700 clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Dr. Miller explained, Rotary International has spent more than $1750,000 in recent years through its program of student fellowships, which enable outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as ambassadors of good will. Since 1947, when this program was established, 709 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students in 57 countries.

"With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides a common ground for 414,000 business and professional executives throughout the world, regardless of differing nationalities or political or religious beliefs," the Rotary District Governor emphasized.

"In addition to the promotion Dr. Miller coninuted, "special emphasis is being placed by Rotary Clubs this year on activities of their own communities which will furnish leadership in youth programs, raise standards, in businesses and profession, promote traffic safety, develop good citizenship and build better rural-urban relationships."

Pleasure-Profit Holds Meeting

"Superstitions" was the subject most interestingly presented by Mrs. W. T. Whatley Jr. at the Pleasure and Profit Club meeting of Sept. 22. Fifteen members answered roll call by repeating a superstition. Mrs. Whatley then gave the program by repeating the supposed origin of some of the most common superstitions. After years of repetition some of these are almost considered truths by certain sections of the country. The folly of such consideration was discussed.

A salad course with iced tea was served by the hostess Mrs. Milton Schiller assisted by Mrs. Charlie Burke and Nancy Schiller.

The president, Mrs. H. G. Haraway called the meeting to order and the collect was read. A report of the Bloodmobile's visit was given. The community project chairman, Mrs. Schapiro gave a report.

The club adjourned to meet Oct. 13 with Mrs. W. T. Whatley Jr. as hostess. Subject for the day will be "Texas Ghost Towns."

Beachcombing May Pay Off

Three Ceylon children may get a better education because of a bottle a swedish engineer tossed into the sea last year. The bottle contained a note with the engineer's promise of a present to who ever found it and wrote to him. The bottle was found on the North Coast of Ceylon by a woman who has written to the engineer asking for help to educate her 3 children.

Earrings B. C.

Earrings are a pretty stable item in women's jewelry. Archaeologists digging in the ruins of the Greek Etruscan City of Spina have found a pair of solid gold ones, presumably dating long before the time of Christ.

Has Last Laugh

They laughed when Mrs. Hugh Cannon of Hartsville paid $2 for a dusty old painting. In fact Mrs. Cannon wasn't too sure she had received her money's worth. She finally got around to taking the picture to the Columbia Museum of Art. There, Dr. John Craft and other experts told Mrs. Cannon it was her turn to laugh.

The painting is thought to be the work of Juan De Ribera, a 17th Century artist. It is a scene showing the martyrdom of Saints. Dr. Craft figures it is worth, $50,000.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Shades of Tom Sawyer!

Hack Willis had just stopped the tractor so's he could cool off at the pump, when a young insurance salesman came up the drive.

Hack was tired of plowing, and needed insurance on his new barn. But he also needed to get that winter rye in fast. The salesman, an eager kid, noticed hesitation. "I come from a farm," he said. "Why don't you look at these booklets—get all the dope—and I'll take that plow a couple of rounds for you."

Young fellow laid off a pretty straight furrow, too. It was almost dark before Hack—sitting in the shade—was able to decide just what kind of policy to get.

From where I sit, to be a good salesman—or a good citizen—it always helps to "put yourself in the other man's place." He may have a different sort of job with different problems ... he may prefer to close a deal over, say, a friendly glass of beer while you might prefer something else. But both of you can co-operate if you make it a "policy" to try.

FALL is the time to Light Condition your home!

School homework requires the best in lighting to protect young eyes. Wall lamps, properly placed, will provide a perfectly-lighted shelf for study.

Did you know that poor grades can often be traced to inadequate lighting at home? But whether there are school children in your home or not, you should have a Light Conditioned Home ... and enjoy the advantages of lighter days and nights for work, play and happier living. Let the magic of light bring new comfort, enjoyment, and eye protection to your family.

Properly placed table lamps, with the right sized bulb, also provide good lighting for study. Proper lighting promotes good posture and mental attentiveness, too.

For the music student, proper lighting is essential. With a properly placed floor lamp, scores are easier to read, minute symbols can be seen readily.

It's easy to Light Condition your home ... all you need is a ruler or tape measure and a copy of "See Your Home in a New Light" containing tested light conditioning recipes. Ask for your free copy at the nearest Texas Power & Light Company office.

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm is talking about politics or football this week, we can't tell which.

Dear editar:

I noticed in a copy of a newspaper which I was using to fan the gnats off of me yesterday afternoon where Secretary of Agriculture Benson, in a speech in Salt Lake City, said the 'farm program should not be made into a political football."

Just a while back, another Washington official, I forget his name, said foreign policy should not be made into a political football, and over the past few months other topics which officials said shouldn't be made into a political football included social security, income taxes, balancing the budget, national defense spending, airplane contract, tax cuts, and a good many others I forgot to keep track of.

The question I want answered is: what are they gonna leave us to play football with?

The way it looks to me, a lot of politicians in this country must be opposed to football, and personally while I never play the game myself, I never considered it very sinister, in fact it seems to afford a lot of people a lot of pleasure and besides is a good way for a lot of boys to work their way thrugh college, even if it doesn't leave much time for education, although this is no real criticism, as I've noticed you can never go near a football stadium and still get through college without bothering much with an education.

But back to the other type of football, political football, regardless of how much the officials claim we shouldn't use this or that subject as a political football, I'm afraid they won't get anywhere with it. The game is too popular.

If yelling when farm prices go down or promising to do something about it if elected, without mentioning exactly what, is making a football out of the farm program, I'm afraid the game will go on. Farmers aren't much different from football fams, when the game isn't going to suit them, they start howling.

This is a great American sport and if prices stay low everybody is likely to coninue making a football out of the farm program, and if by the end of the season things are still the same, they'll make a political basketball out of it, then a political baseball and finally maybe a track meet. I rule out ping pong, though.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Mannequins All Unstrung

Five year old Nadine Nelson grew bored during a shopping tour with her mother and wandered into the front display window of a department store. Already there were 2 smartly dressed girls and a boy - dummies, of course. As a crowd gathered on the outside of the window, Nadine lifted a wig from one of the dummies and tried it on for size. She discarded it and tried the second wig then the third. Then she went into an imitation of a professional model.

When her mother and store officials finally found her, Nadine was busily and happily unscrewing the arms and legs of her dummy playmates.

Fighter Gets Hand Bull Gets "Olay"

Opening - day crowds at the Texas Prison Rodeo Sunday, Oct 2, saw the world's top lady bullfighter give an exhibition in the rodeo arena.

Bette Ford, the 24 year old American, has signed to perform between wild - west events at the opening day show and for the the 4 of the 5 Sunday series.

Miss Ford, a former New York model and a native of McKeesport Pa., turned to bullfighting in Mexico two years ago.

Taking the bull by the horns is one way to success all right. But when a Broadway actress - model takes that formula literally, that's NEWS!

Pert Bette Ford is making just such news today. Far from Manhatten - in the heart of Mexico's manana - land - the former New York beauty is making bullfight history.

Mexican Bred Bulls

Coffield said her appearance is an exhibition of the genuine art of bullfighting. The bulls used are animals bred for this sport and are being brought here from Mexico especially for this show.

The prison rodeo is staged each of the five Sundays in October, and each performance starts at 2 p.m. sharp.

More than 60 convicts will be among the contestants. In addition to Miss Ford's appearance, there will be five other specialty acts. Those include trick riders, mounted quadrille, jumping horses and others.

Mail orders for tickets may be be sent to the prison rodeo ticket office in Huntsville.

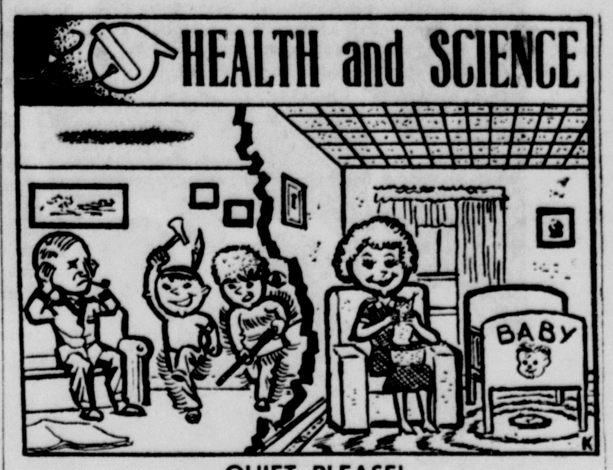
HEALTH and SCIENCE



QUIET PLEASE!

The nagging headache that's been bothering you, the chronic inability to sleep, the constant indigestion may be attributed to a by-product of 20th century progress—noise. With the advent of radios, television sets, mechanical appliances, jet air planes, automobiles and other marks of our higher standard of living—"Home Sweet Home" can become a Tower of Babel, with most of us living in a sea of noise.

The quiet home can be an effective place for rest, relaxation, good conversation and study—if noise is held to a minimum. According to the Acoustical Materials Association the rooms listed below are the five noisiest spots in the home that respond to sound conditioning. In addition to placing easy-to-install acoustical materials on the ceilings of these rooms to absorb noise, here are some other remedies.

1. Kitchen—Noises can be lowered by mounting refrigerators, dishwashers, mixers and other appliances on mountings of cork or rubber. Line drawers and cabinets with resilient mats of rubber, plastic, etc.
2. Playrooms—In the basement rooms can be quieted by using resilient floor tiles, panelled walls, drapes, rugs, and double doors.
3. Halls—Act as megaphones and convey noise from one room to another. Use tight fitting doors and carpet runners.
4. Dining Rooms—Drapes, rugs, curtains will cut down clatter of dishes, silverware and voices.
5. Utility Rooms—Furnace and appliance noise can be reduced if room is isolated from rest of house. See that mechanical equipment is in good working condition. Walls and ceilings should be treated with acoustical materials.

Best noise reducer of all is a realization that if everybody in the house makes less noise—home will be a more peaceful place in which to live.

Soil Conservation District News

Supervisors: Edwin Fischer, A. W. Butts, Paul C. Graves, Clarence L. Stock and Hal Hartrick.

"Twenty - seven bales of cotton weighing 544 pounds per bale from 34 acres of land with conservation use and treatment" is the report from District cooperator, Floyd Frits at New Colony. His cotton was on good Class II blackland where he planted around 40 pounds of Austrian winter peas fertilized

The peas were cut loose last spring before cotton planting time after they had made around 10 tons of growth per acre. The cotton of growth per acre. The cotton was then planted in undisturbed beds. Several farmers in this neighborhood had similar results from this practice; others who have not tried it have recently stated they are going to start this fall.

Deferred grazing has paid dividends to J. E. Terry, cooperator Terry rested a 40 acre pasture all in the South Killeen community. summer and at present all grasses have made an excellent growth and seed crop. He has developed a good cover on the ground which will protect the soil from erosion. Hiss grasses will furnish some late fall and winter grazing when it is most needed. Terry stated that he didn't know he had that much grass and that he would never graze it as short as he had before. Deferred grazing through the growing season for 90 to 120 days for native range grasses will pay good dividends in the future in His grasses will furnish some late forage production. The longer rest periods have proved more successful in developing native grasses than short periods.

Cotton yields on the D. E. Birkes farm this year is proving some of the benefits derived from conservation farming and good managment practices. Located in the Blacklands of the Cow Bayou Watershed near Satin, this farm produced almost as much lint per acre on the upland as did the bottomland.

Since buying his farm in 1947, Mr. Birkes has seeded some acreage to Hubam clover and some to winter peas. His clover this year yielded approximately 700 pounds of uncleaned seed per acre.

On a 28 acre upland field of cotton, Mr. Birkes has already picked 17 bales and says the field will make 4 or 5 more bales. He feels that legumes and the addition of organic matter greatly increase the yield on his farm. He plans to continue seeding hubam clover on a rotation basis so as to cover the entire farm with the legume approximately each 4 years. High residue making crops will be returned to the soil to increase the organic matter content of the soil.

He plans to begin terracing his farm this fall. Terraces will empty into Bermuda grass waterways that were sodded this spring.

A cooperator with Central Texas Soil Conservation District, Mr. Birkes is in the process of applying a complete conservation plan on his farm.

Salvation Army Asks Aid In Tampico Relief Following Hilda

An unusual appeal from the Salvation Army comes to these newspapers for donations from Texas friends of the Salvation Army and of Tampico Mexico where that beneficent organization is assisting in rehabilitation from the devastation left by hurricane Hilda.

"The Air Force has flown clothing from San Antonio, but most of the need now is for other necessities which can only be bought in Mexico," says a letter from Mr. Dan Eddy, Public Relations Director and he continues "The need is more tremendous than we can put into words; your help will enable us to meet that need. We will appreciate deeply your help in this matter."

Contributions may be mailed to Salvation Army, 500 North Ervay Street, Dallas 1, Texas.

Hilda Lays Tampico Low

The hurricane which struck Tampico, Mexico, with such killing force last week, leaving hundreds dead and wrecking thousands of homes, also completely destroyed the Salvation army building in that city, according to word received at Texas headquarters. However, inspite of the lack of a center from which to operate, Salvation Army officers were on the job from the beginning, giving whatever emergency disaster relief was possible.

Working without rest, the local Salvation Army officers helped in the evacuation of people from their homes as the water rose. They helped set up temporary shelters and gathered food and water. Clothing from other Salvation Army centers was flown in by air, and all available Salvation Army officers in Mexico braved high water to join in the rescue work inside the city.

Reports from Salvation Army personnel reveal that the total story of destruction from the hurricane may not be learned for months, since nearby villages were washed completely away and there are no records of how many survived. This is the hurricane that was expected to hit Texas and caused the posting of flood warnings along the Rio Grande, but which battered itself out in the mountains west of Tampico.

Funds for emergency disaster relief in Mexico have been completely exhausted during the recent operations, according to Brigadier Reginald Clevett, commanding officer of Salvation Army in Mexico. The problem of continuing emergency aid to the homeless in addition to the need to rebuild Salvation Army installations is a grave one, he said.

Lt. Col. John A. Morrison, Texas divisional commander, states that funds are needed immediately to help our neighbor south of the bordor. He says, "The work of the Salvation Army in this disaster will be limited only by the funds available." Those desiring to contribute to this fund may send their contributions to Lt. Col. John A. Morrison, the Salvation Army, 500 North Ervay, Dallas, Texas.

Rockdale Firm Ships Carload Turkeys Daily

Milam Produce Company opened Sept. 28 for the first time since 1951, and by Thursday was turning out nearly a car load of dressed turkeys per day.

Manager Frank Haley said initial employment was about 50 persons, handling about 1500 turkeys per day. He said peak employment, expected late this year, will be about 150 persons.

The company, Haley said, is prepared to make contracts with turkey and chicken growers in this area and will offer financial aid to purchase poultry and feed to encourage large crops of turkeys and broilers.

High Goals

The company, once rated one of Texas' largest independent poultry processing plants, has a goal of 50,000 turkeys, 250,000 broilers and 2,000,000 fryers per year.

Production at the company's ice plant is now on a 24 hour basis to keep pace with icing down fresh dressed turkeys.

Though nothing but turkeys are being processed now, the procedure is the same on broilers and fryers. The Produce company takes live poultry, removes all feathers, completely dresses and cleans the fowls, encases them in air - tight plastic bags and quick freezes them so that they are ready to be placed in the oven.

By following the instructions a housewife can turn a locally - processed fowl into a full meal in about three hours without doing more than turning on the oven.

Also in future plans is an egg breaking and grading operation which will start next spring. This will entail additional employment, Haley said.

Peak production this fall will be about 2500 per day on turkeys and 15,000 per day on fryers. Dressed hens weigh between 12 and 14 pounds, dressed toms between 18 and 20 pounds.

Mr. Bennett is hospitalized at the Santa Fe hospital. His recovery is as fast as can be expected but when asked Mrs. Bennett said the day of his return home is the "64,000 question".

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

A good conservation program is being applied by Mrs. Elizabeth Blanton on her farm seven miles west of Granger. Mrs. Blanton who is a cooperator with the Little River - San Gabriel Soil Conservation District has established two Bermuda grass waterways and constructed seven miles of large channel type terraces this year. This has nearly completed the mechanical phase of the program; however a continuous maintainence program will be applied to all terraces and waterways. Properly maintained terraces and waterways will insure that the rolling cropland on the farm will be protected against sheet and gulley erosion.

Now that the mechanical phase of the program is nearly completed Mrs Blanton plans to intensify the soil improving phase which has proven its merits through increased yields and profits. Present plans are that 50 per cent of the cropland will be planted to a soil improving legume crop this fall if weather conditions are suitable. This acreage will include winter peas on land that will be row cropped next year and an acreage of hubam sweet clover for seed and hay. According to Mrs. Blanton a soil improving legume crop will be grown on as many acres of her farm each year as possible.

To aid the terracing program and the vegetative being applied all tillage operations will be conducted on the contour with the terraces and all crop residues will be returned to the soil.

Though cropland acreage has received most of her attention, Mrs. Blanton has not neglected the pasture land on her farm. In order to improve pasture conditions livestock numbers were reduced and pastures rotated. This has resulted in an increase in litter and cover on the land and a more vigorous stand of grass.

Fritz Doss has planted 10 acres of oats on his farm about 5 miles south of Rockdale. The oats were planted in combination with peanut harvesting operations. A 12 foot fertilizer distributor was used to plant the oats on top of the ground before the peanuts were dug. Plowing out the peanuts and oats. After the peanuts were thrashed the hay was scattered with a side delivery rake. Later the oats will be fertilized by top dressing.

Mr. Doss used this method of planting his oats on peanut land last year and found it very successful. There are several advantages to planting oats and winter legumes by this method. There is a saving of time in planting and the planting can be done earlier. This is especially important on peanuts to keep the land from blowing.

Ernest Noak and Leon have developed about 80 acres of Bermuda pasture by fertilizing and planting small grain and legumes on their farm about 5 miles south of Rockdale. There are several cooperators over the Taylor Dstrict that have made good pastures by the same method. One of the most used methods is to plant oats and vetch on sandy land. This crop is heavily fertilized and the vetch allowed to make seed. Vetch has volunteered on one of John Parmelee's pastures for the past four years. In every case where sandy land has been stirred and fertilized for a few years Bermuda grass has come in and over a period of three to four years the field will be solid in Bermuda. A light sodding if no Bermuda shows up after the first year, will spread rapidly.

Coastal Bermuda grass is a new hybrid grass that does not make seed. It out yields common Bermuda grass and is a good grass to use in sodding on fertile or fertilized land. C. E. Poe, who has a farm in the Shilo community says he is going more and more to Costal. He has been trying it for the past three years.

King Ranch bluestem grass is doing well in waterways this year. This grass will make a cover and provide protection where Bermuda will not thrive. S. D. Turner planted a waterway on the Turner farm about three miles East of Thorndale three years ago. It has made a solid cover and he plans to mow it for hay and scatter it on his pastures. There are some that do not like this grass and about the same number that like it very much. There are two periods during the year that it makes good grazing and at these times it is about the best grass available. It is a hardy grass that is easily planted and comes up well. Once it is up it will hold its own and it will grow on land that will not grow other grasses without extensive fertilizing and land preparation. Some grasses require several years of conditioning. The city of Thorndale has a little over 10 acres of land around the city lake that will be planted in grass next year. The land was broken and fertilized this year and planted to red top cane. One cutting of hay that made 113 bales per acre was made and the residue and second crop cane will be left on the ground to be used as a mulch in which to plant the grass. Several grasses will be used.
